

THE WAR IS NEARLY OVER

Is the Opinion General in Constantinople

ARMISTICE IN A FEW DAYS

Practically Whole of European Turkey Is Lost—Fugitives Crowding Around City Walls of Constantinople—Young Turks Leaving.

Constantinople, Nov. 16.—The opinion is general here that the war is practically over. An armistice with the Bulgarians will probably be arranged within the next few days and will be quickly followed by negotiations for peace. The Ottoman government fully realizes that further resistance can only proclaim Turkey's position still more untenable, while its outcome is exceedingly problematical and might lead to even more humiliation.

The bulk of public opinion is beginning to rally to the support of the position taken by responsible statesmen, and it is generally hoped the best possible peace conditions will be secured. It is recognized that practically the whole of European Turkey is lost; so much so that the council of the Ottoman public debt are already taking stock of the interest in the lost provinces, in view of protecting themselves when the final settlement comes up for discussion. Hitherto, only a few soldiers, badly wounded in battle, have arrived here. Owing to their wounds not being treated for several days after being inflicted, a number of the men are affected by blood poisoning and gangrene. The doctors declare many of the wounds are self-inflicted. No cholera precautions are sent to the city, but little precaution is taken to prevent the refugees bringing it in. Fugitives continue to pour around the city walls. Trainloads of them are being sent daily along the railroad into Asia Minor. Many foreign residents, who were willing to risk the chance of a fanatical outbreak, are departing for Europe on account of the cholera. The departure of some prominent in the Young Turk party for Europe is considered by many as a forecast of the possible return of the old regime, in which case the Young Turk leaders would be the first sufferers. In any case, an interesting situation is causing much speculation. No one has any idea what will happen.

BULGARIAN CABINET BUSY

Communicating Terms of Armistice to Allies.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Nov. 16.—The Bulgarian cabinet has lost no time in communicating the contents of a letter from the Turkish grand vizier on the subject of an armistice to the allies and an interchange of views between the Balkan governments is in progress. It is stated that peace conditions will be formulated with the least possible delay and presented to Turkey for acceptance or rejection. Unless accepted within 24 hours after presentation, hostilities will be continued so as not to permit Turkey to gain valuable time by wrangling over the condition. Prompt acceptance possibly will avert the entire Bulgarian troops into Constantinople.

It is believed Bulgaria will not object to Turkey retaining Constantinople and the Dardanelles. Regarding the military situation at the Tchatalja fortification in front of Constantinople, there have been so far as known merely a few encounters between Bulgarian and Turkish outposts, while the Bulgarians have occupied their villages in front of the fortifications.

TWO INJURED IN CAVE-IN.

Two on the Dangerous List—Many Others Narrowly Escape.

Boston, Nov. 16.—Two men were dangerously injured and another slightly hurt in a cave-in of the new Boylston street subway in front of 416 Newbury street, shortly before noon yesterday.

The men were partly buried under several tons of clay and a mass of tangled timbers. They were rescued by other workmen. The men were first struck by falling timbers. The accident occurred 40 feet below the street level and drew hundreds of people to the scene, including students from the Volkman school, a Harvard preparatory institution located directly in front of the spot where the cave-in occurred.

The cause of the accident was the caving of a bulkhead, 15 by 20 feet, the purpose of which was to keep the clay in place. "The bulkhead simply gave way," said Hugh Nawn, the contractor in charge of the work. "It was something that might happen at any time."

Several ambulances were sent to the scene and the injured men taken to the City hospital when brought up in the large steam buckets used for lifting earth to the surface.

Those who were placed on the dangerous list at the hospital were George Vendict, suffering from fractured pelvis and bruises, and an unidentified Italian who sustained a fractured skull, a crushed leg and other injuries. Alphonse Campeno, another laborer, was taken to the hospital, but was allowed to go home after treatment.

PORTLAND EXPRESS WRECK AT MILFORD, CONN.

Cars Derailed But No One Hurt—Freight Rips Out Side of Cars After Passengers Alight.

Milford, Conn., Nov. 16.—The Portland express, which runs to New York by way of Springfield, Mass., was derailed here this morning, probably by the spreading of a switch. After the passengers had alighted, an extra freight, running west on the next inward track, ripped out the sides of the four derailed coaches. No passengers were hurt.

LIMIT EXPIRED.

Massachusetts Contestants Made No Move in Eddy Will Case.

Boston, Nov. 16.—The contestants in Massachusetts of the will of Mrs. Mary Baker Glover Eddy, the founder of the Christian Science church, failed to take advantage of the thirty-day limit allowed in which to amend their bill for the purpose of showing that the testaments were in fact, and against public policy.

In Massachusetts the supreme court decided last month that the will of Mrs. Eddy did not fail because it created a public trust. The court held, however, that Mrs. Eddy did not have the right to transfer two pieces of real estate in this state to the directors of the church. The case will soon come up before a single judge for the appointment of new trustees to this property, which is valued at $155,000. With this appointment, the principal contest over Mrs. Eddy's estate in Massachusetts will be settled.

Glover of Lead, S. D., who seeks to have set aside the residuary bequest made by his mother, Mrs. Mary Baker Glover Eddy, founder of the denomination, to the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston. The amendments were filed by the United States Senator William E. Chandler as attorney.

The plaintiff's petition, if allowed, would cause the bequest, estimated at $3,000,000, to revert to the natural heirs.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. Olin L. Titlton of East Montpelier were in the city to-day on business.

CROWDS TO SEE FOOTBALL

Ideal Football Conditions For Today's Games

NEW HAVEN AND CAMBRIDGE

Harvard a Slight Favorite Over Dartmouth—Uncertainty as to Outcome at New Haven—Pennsylvania Carlisle to Meet To-day.

New York, Nov. 16.—Yale and Princeton start today's football program in the East, with the Harvard-Dartmouth and Pennsylvania-Carlisle games in second place. Special trains began the work of transporting the army of spectators from New York to Princeton soon after sunrise. The day dawned clear and cool, with breezy November crispness, which makes for the snappiest football.

Through the betting odds favored Yale, there was rather more uncertainty than usual in both camps over the outcome. Yale's goal line has not been crossed, while Princeton received discouraging defeat at the hands of Harvard two weeks ago. To-day's test of the important game included the Army vs. Tufts at West Point, Navy vs. North Carolina at Annapolis, Syracuse vs. Colgate at Syracuse, Brown vs. Lafayette at Providence, Wesleyan vs. Trinity at Middletown.

LARGEST CROWD OF THE SEASON AT CAMBRIDGE

Playing Conditions Perfect for To-day's Game Between Harvard and Dartmouth—Seats for 40,000 Spectators.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 16.—The largest football crowd of the season in the East gathered at the stadium to-day to see Harvard and Dartmouth in their 28th annual contest. The weather was ideal, the night not having been sufficiently cold to freeze the turf, while a bright sky and light breeze made playing conditions perfect. The seating capacity of the stadium was extended so 40,000 persons were able to witness the game.

Harvard was a slight favorite in the betting. The two teams regarded Harvard as averaging one or two pounds per man lighter than the Haverdians, but the crimson expected to make up in speed what she lacked in weight. It was believed Harvard would not unveil her best offensive plays, preferring to save them for the game with Yale next Saturday. Dartmouth, having no more matches this year, was expected to display the full gamut of her plays.

GOVERNMENT TO INVESTIGATE
GATE GRAND TRUNK DEAL

Attorney-General Orders Probe by Department of Justice Under the Sherman Anti-Trust Law.

Boston, Nov. 16.—An investigation to ascertain the facts of the alleged agreement between the New York, New Haven & Hartford and the Grand Trunk railroads was ordered in Washington yesterday by Attorney-General Wickersham. The department of justice will determine whether the arrangement consummated or contemplated is a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

And, almost simultaneously with the issuance of the attorney-general's orders, the fact became known that President Taft would meet personally on Monday morning with the representatives of the Massachusetts railroad commission and the Rhode Island public utilities board, to confer with them in regard to the situation and to listen to their views.

The sudden, though not unexpressed announcement of the government authorities in Washington last night, added to the furor which has been existing in New England since the recent Grand Trunk-New Haven developments became public. Merchants and business men, however, were loath to discuss the situation, saying they wished to wait until they saw how matters shaped themselves to-day.

The investigation of the situation by the department of justice will probably be made under the direction of James Fowler, assistant to the attorney-general, in charge of the anti-trust work. He will call to assist him in his work the United States district attorneys of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Hampshire and Vermont.

It is likely there will be co-operation between Mr. Fowler and the congressional committee which is to investigate the "money trust." The interstate commerce commission will also, according to reports, be called upon to assist. John T. Marchand, counsel for the commission, who will represent the board in a legal way when the inquiry into the service furnished by the New Haven is resumed in this city on Monday, stated yesterday that the essential facts in relation to the Grand Trunk-New Haven "deal" would be brought out at the hearings.

NEW FIVE CENT PIECE.

Its Design Will Have Head of an Indian on Its Face.

Washington, Nov. 16.—The design of the new nickel to supplant the five-cent coin now in circulation will be perfected by Secretary of the Treasury MacVegh within a few weeks. George E. Roberts, director of the mint, and J. E. Fraser of New York, an artist who is working on the design, conferred with the secretary to-day.

An Indian head will adorn the face of the coin and the figure of a buffalo the reverse. The design is intended to honor the disappearing Indian and buffalo, linked together in American history.

A SHORT SESSION
IN HOUSE TODAY

Four Measures Passed and Five New Bills Introduced at the Morning Session To-day.

State House, Nov. 16.—With the Senate adjourned until Monday night, the House could not settle itself to business this morning, and after being in session about 45 minutes adjourned until 8:30 Monday evening. The sum total of the morning's business was four measures read a third time and passed, and five bills introduced.

Mr. Cook of Lyndon moved that a committee be named to arrange some sort of plan for announcing committee meetings and hearings, and the speaker named as such a committee Mr. Cook, Mr. McClellan of Plymouth and Mr. Gage of Weathersfield.

An act to authorize the city of Rutland to appropriate money for street carriages.

Joint resolution relating to the proposed amendment of the constitution of the United States concerning income tax.

Joint resolution providing for a visit by the committee on military affairs to the soldiers' home at Bennington.

Legislative Notes.

Senator Henry has a bill in the hands of the revision committee which makes one more attempt to solve the vexed question of how best to appoint license commissioners. This bill proposes to have the towns and cities elect their own commissioners. A bill to have the license commissioners appointed by the selectmen and boards of aldermen of the several towns and cities was recently reported on unfavorably by the joint committee on temperance and killed by the Senate.

CODIFICATION OF FISH AND GAME LAWS PROPOSED

Bill Providing for This Introduced in the House Yesterday—New Taxation Bill in the House—Another Inquiry on Hedgehog Bill.

Montpelier, Nov. 14.—With only 11 members of the Senate present at the afternoon session yesterday, which lasted less than an hour, and nearly 100 vacant seats in the House, no attempt was made to discuss measures with the exception of the Brattleboro overpass bill in the House. The House devoted considerable time over the proposition to have the new game law code printed for general distribution and fully as much time was spent over five separate motions to adjourn.

Notwithstanding the time devoted to the two latter propositions in the House, considerable time was run through the legislative measures which seemed to prevail an opinion that there would be more vacant seats at the opening this morning. The Senate has adjourned until Monday evening.

It has become known that Governor Fletcher is opposed to the bill to increase the number of seats in the Senate.

MAY GO TO BURLINGTON.

Effort Will Be Made to Put Fish and Game League on New Basis.

Montpelier, Nov. 16.—At a meeting of the fish and game league, held here last evening, it was decided to hold the adjourned meeting sometime next January. An effort will be made to call together for this meeting all the sportsmen of the state, especially the younger men, and to arouse new interest in the league as a non-partisan, non-political organization of enthusiasts with a common cause. The place of the meeting has not yet been definitely fixed, but it will probably be held in Burlington.

Social Tea at Home of Mrs. Walker.

About thirty invited friends of Mrs. Weston Walker assembled at her home on Cleveland avenue Friday afternoon for a social tea. Soon after the party's arrival, each person was furnished with needle, thread and thimble, also a small square of white lawn, on which each guest embroidered her name and address, which will eventually appear in a nice quilt. After a busy engagement of about three hours, the jolly party retired to the dining room, where a bountiful supper was served. Later in the evening, while Mrs. Granger presided at the piano, Mrs. Morrison and Mrs. Woodcock planned the highland fling and Mrs. Willis Hall favored the company with a solo. At an early hour all went home, most pleased with the afternoon gathering.

YOUNG MEN ARE SAFE

Carl Waterman and Friends on Juniper Island

LANDED THERE THURSDAY

Lake So Rough They Could Not Get Word to Shore Until This Morning of Whereabouts—Boat Unable to Make Trip Across Thursday Afternoon.

A dispatch received in Barre this forenoon carried information of the safe arrival at Juniper island of Carl D. Waterman of this city, Dr. Robert Renfrew, a Burlington veterinarian, formerly of Barre, and George E. Andrews, the three young men whose prolonged absence on lake Champlain caused much consternation among their friends. The first news of the party which left Port Henry, N. Y., Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in a small motor boat came this forenoon when the keeper in charge of the light at Juniper island effected a passage to the mainland and told Burlington friends of the young men that they had reached the island and were then in no danger. The message was then forwarded to Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Waterman of this city, parents of the Barre young man. On account of the rough weather the lightkeeper stated that the party would probably remain on the island until this afternoon or Sunday morning.

The news of the party's narrow escape from drowning marked the end of an anxious period which began yesterday morning when friends of the young men had expected them to return from a short sail on the lake the previous afternoon failed to learn any information as to their whereabouts, as had been anticipated. Local relatives of Mr. Waterman and friends of Dr. Renfrew, who as a former resident of Barre, is well known here, were notified of the situation yesterday afternoon and Paul Waterman, a brother of the former, came to Burlington from Montclair, N. J., early this morning.

According to the lightkeeper's story this forenoon, the motor party put out of Port Henry at the hour already stated. Thursday afternoon they experienced considerable difficulty in making progress on account of rough weather and near Juniper island, some mechanism in the engine failing to operate, the pilot was obliged to turn his prow toward the only haven in sight. The lightkeeper spied the party in trouble and he assisted them to a safe landing on the island. Messrs Waterman, Renfrew and Andrews were housed in the lighthouse last night and were compelled to remain there through to-day. Realizing that friends of the young men would be put to worry by their absence, the keeper started out for the mainland as early as possible this morning.

The three young men in the launch Rip left Burlington harbor Thursday afternoon, bound ostensibly for a ride of a few hours. They went to Port Henry, after half-hour's stay on the New York side. Friends of the young men felt no alarm when the party did not return at nightfall, as it was surmised that they had stayed over in some port on account of the rough weather.

Friday noon when no word had been received from the trio, an effort was made to ascertain their whereabouts. Ports across the lake from Burlington were notified by telephone, but no one had seen the missing men and the alarm grew until the Burlington police were advised of the situation. Several efforts were made to search for them in a boat. Dr. H. N. Nelson Jackson tiered the use of his boat, but the crew did not dare venture forth in the face of such unfavorable weather, and other craft were withheld for the same reason. During the day, the captain of the Ticonderoga was instructed to be on the lookout for signs of the overdue party, and he kept up an incessant watch while making his trip, in addition to starting inquiries at the several ports touched on the voyage.

Last night it was stated that boats would be put on the lake if the condition of the water would warrant. It was intended to start a careful search through the islands in the hope that the missing men would be found.

It is said that Mr. Waterman had been the guest of his old schoolmate, Dr. Renfrew, for a few days. He left Barre Wednesday, expecting to visit in Burlington and St. Albans before returning home. A part of the program during his stay in Burlington was a trip in Mr. Andrews' motor boat. It was early in the afternoon of Thursday when the three put out in the boat, saying that they would be absent but a short time. It has been learned that they went directly to Port Henry, where persons at the dock heard them mention their anxiety to reach Burlington before night set in. It was the last seen of them.

TALK OF THE TOWN

D. S. Laramie of West street left yesterday for Rouses Point, N. Y., where he will make a short visit with relatives.

William T. Maiden of this city, has been elected to captain the sophomore class football team at the university of Vermont. Maiden took an active part in the freshman class eleven last year and has been one of the star backfield members of the 1915 class team this fall. Early in the season Maiden received slight injuries that kept him out of the scrimmage for a few weeks, but of late his work has been sensational. His vote for the position of captaincy was nearly unanimous. This afternoon the annual freshman-sophomore clash will take place at Burlington. The sophomore eleven is well represented by players, who are well known in interscholastic circles in Washington county. Maiden, capt. and halfback, is a graduate of Spaulding high school, Ballard, halfback and tackle, and a graduate of the high school at Glendon, the fullback on the 1915 team was one of the best football players ever turned out of Montpelier seminary.

EXONERATE DRIVER AND OWNER OF AUTOMOBILE

Inquest Held Before Judge Scott on Death of Florence L. Milne Clears the Partridges of any Blame.

At a private inquest conducted before Judge H. W. Scott in city court yesterday afternoon to determine the exact manner in which Florence L. Milne, the six-year-old daughter of Mrs. Nellie Milne of Washington street, met death in an automobile accident near her home last Monday, testimony offered by some twelve witnesses tended to show that the car which figured in the affair was driven at a moderate rate of speed when the child ran into the street. Witnesses also supplied information which has caused the authorities to completely exonerate the driver as well as the owner of the machine from any blame. State's Attorney J. Ward Carver conducted the investigation and it was at his behest that a number of eye witnesses whom he examined were subpoenaed.

A significant incident in the inquest was the appearance of Harvey B. Partridge of East Barre, owner of the automobile and his son, J. Arthur Partridge, the driver, both of whom asked permission to give their version of the accident. The elder Partridge and the boy were not ordered to appear in court and they took the stand on their own initiative. The story told by the Partridges was corroborated in its most essential details by the testimony offered by nearly every other witness. Mr. Partridge stated that his car was bowling easily along Washington street when he saw the girl in the road. He supposed she had ample time to reach the other side and believed she must have heard his horn several times. Just as she appeared to be safely across the path of the approaching car, she appeared to jump back and almost at the same moment the right headlight struck her and the machine passed over the body. He was able to stop the car before it had gone its own length.

The younger Partridge stated that he was at the wheel. His story agreed with that of his father and the other witnesses. One man who testified later told of coming onto Washington street from Huntington avenue just a moment before the accident occurred. He stated that the Partridge car appeared to be coasting down the hill without using any power. Others verified this story and not a single line of evidence tended to show that the machine was speeding or that the driver was in any measure negligent. There were others, too, who testified to seeing the Partridge car descend the Washington street hill before during the present automobile season. Never had the driver seemed to be exceeding the speed laws, they said.

It was while Mr. Partridge was on the stand that an explanation came as to why the car was traveling the left side of the road at the time of the accident. Mr. Partridge told of seeing the street car halt near the West Patterson street terminus as he neared the base of Waterman's hill. At the north side of the car, which was at the driver's right, three men were standing between the sidewalk and the car. The driver turned to the left of the track for that reason. As he passed the car he noticed a group of children in the street and also at the driver's right. It was his purpose to continue on the left of the track until he had passed the children. It was before he had time to veer his car back to the right that the Milne girl came running across the road.

COUNTY COURT NEARLY ENDED.

Benjamin Sawyer Adjudged in Contempt—Ordered to Pay Alimony.

Benjamin Sawyer was adjudged in contempt of court in Washington county court yesterday and was ordered to pay a fine of $1 and costs of proceedings. He must pay the clerk of the court $4 a week alimony, to be expended for the benefit of his minor children. This case was brought forward from the September term of 1911, when Mrs. Sawyer sued for a divorce.

The case of the Thompson-Starrett company against J. E. Plunkett of Northfield, which was adjourned so that Attorney Sargent might be present at the Turkey murder case before supreme court, was resumed yesterday.

There are still a few divorce cases to hear, but the term will probably adjourn within a few days.

FEW DEER SECURED
BY HUNTERS OF BARRE

Only Successful Nimrods so Far Heard from Are John Magnaghi and George Cilley.

Few deer have been reported by Barre hunters to date. John Magnaghi of Durkee place and Angelo Bianchi, who went over to Orange, reported that M. Magnaghi shot a good-sized buck over in the territory adjoining Groton early yesterday morning.

About the first successful report from the deer season was received yesterday at the H. J. Smith market at the north end, when George Cilley reported his capture. Cilley was hunting in the town of Berlin and brought the animal to earth on the Smith farm.

Another deer to fatten the market stock was brought this morning to the H. J. Smith store by Knutson Ostland, who made his capture in the town of Berlin near the Middlesex line. Ostland was out at sunrise and soon sighted tracks. Following he came in range of the danger zone about 9 o'clock in the morning. His shots were effective and felled the deer. The deer is a buck, weighing about 110 pounds.

Visitors from Marshfield to-day claim that the markets of Marshfield are issuing reports that four or five deer in the vicinity of Cabot and Marshfield have been shot.

SEVEN DEER IN DUXBURY.

Is Record of First Day's Shooting in That Town.

Duxbury, Nov. 16.—Seven deer is the record of the first day of the deer season in this town. Clyde DeForge, Ray Davis, Rufus Deaton, William Deaton and Frank Collins, all of this town each secured a buck yesterday in the neighborhood of Scrimble hill.

Frank Cross of Winoski and a Mr. Rivers of Burlington, each secured a buck apiece in this town yesterday.

Deputy Sheriff H. J. Pacher was called to Grigg hill in Waterbury this morning to see a doe, shot there yesterday.
